

Removing heat from one place does not remove its environmental consequences.